

Call for Papers

The International Journal of Applied Psychoanalytic Studies is an international, peer-reviewed journal that provides a forum for the publication of original work on the application of psychoanalysis to the entire range of human knowledge. This truly interdisciplinary journal offers a concentrated focus on the subjective and relational aspects of the human unconscious and its expression in human behavior in all its variety.

The journal demonstrates a special interest in contemporary social issues; however, it also encompasses virtually every field and topic of human scholarly study, such as violence, gender, ethnicity, politics, international diplomacy, sociology, education, the environment, medicine, immigration, organizational psychology, management, spirituality and religion, philosophy, anthropology, physics and the arts (including music, drawing, painting, sculpture, prose, poetry, film and theater).

The International Journal of Applied Psychoanalytic Studies welcomes original research papers, review articles, short communications, editorials, and special sections headed by outstanding psychoanalytic and other scholars.

We particularly encourage submissions on psychoanalytic applications to the following topics:

- War, violence, and trauma
- Immigration and Refugees
- Climate Change
- The Environment and natural disasters
- Politics and public policy
- Culture, Race and Racism
- Psychological and Social Consequences of Pandemics, and Challenges of Preparation for the Management of Pandemics

The journal publishes regular issues featuring peer-reviewed research articles that reflect its innovative and international scope. IJAPS also publishes special issues devoted to specific, topical themes. For further details, kindly refer to the journal's homepage.

IJAPS follows a double-blind review process. Manuscripts should normally be up to 12,000 words, including all notes, tables, graphics and references. Authors should follow the Author Guidelines when preparing their manuscript, and submit via the journal's submission site on the homepage.

The Editor welcomes questions and queries regarding potential submissions and may be contacted on ramzyland@msn.com

We take this opportunity to thank you, the authors, reviewers and editors, who contributed and will contribute to the continuing success of the International Journal of Applied Psychoanalytic Studies. We look forward to another successful academic year.
