

Call for Reviewers for the International Journal of Applied Psychoanalytic Studies

The International Journal of Applied Psychoanalytic Studies is seeking applications to join the journal's team of peer reviewers. This is an exciting time to work as a reviewer: the journal is receiving more submissions from around the world, has a well-established special issue program, and publishes on the psychoanalytic contribution to understanding contemporary issues of global importance, such as refugees, climate change and nuclear war.

Reviewers are recognized publicly for their contribution to the journal: in a list of reviewers published every year; by Reviewer Certificates acknowledging their service; and documenting their work through the Reviewer Recognition Service.

About the Journal

The International Journal of Applied Psychoanalytic Studies is an international, peer-reviewed journal that provides a forum for the publication of original work on the application of psychoanalysis to the entire range of human knowledge. This truly interdisciplinary journal offers a concentrated focus on the subjective and relational aspects of the human unconscious and its expression in human behavior in all its variety.

About the Position

Applicants for this position should have expertise in a broad range of psychoanalytic theories with an interest in the application of psychoanalysis to contemporary social issues. These could include: violence, gender, ethnicity, politics, international diplomacy, sociology, education, the environment, medicine, immigration, organizational psychology, management, spirituality and religion, philosophy, anthropology, physics and the arts (including music, drawing, painting, sculpture, prose, poetry, film and theater).

Applications from candidates from underrepresented groups are especially welcome.

The role involves reviewing three to four papers a year. The process involves reviewing submissions to the journal in your area of expertise, as assigned by the Manuscript Review Editor, making constructive comments to improve the manuscript, and returning a recommendation to the Editor-in-Chief within a timeframe of 3 to 4 weeks.

How to Apply

If you are interested in the role, please submit a 2-page CV with a short cover letter outlining your relevant experience and interest in the position and the journal to Marie Rudden (mgrudden@gmail.com). Ideally, successful applicants would be available to start immediately, upon approval of their application.

The Editor and Manuscript Review Editor will consider the applications and make decisions about appointments together.
